Hermann Oak® Leather Co.

Hermann Oak® Leather Co. found its beginning when Lewis Charles Hermann started tanning leather in St. Louis, Missouri in 1881 to serve the local harness trade. Four more generations of Hermanns have followed in Lewis's footsteps to bring the finest vegetable leathers to market. Starting with prime grade heavy native steer hides, Hermann Oak® produces a variety of leathers, each specifically suited for its end use. Hermann Oak's tanning process has not changed much through the years. They still use the finest natural tree bark in their tanning liquors for richness and texture. The leather is soaked in ground vats until it is firm, strong and tight fibered. Hermann Oak's technicians hand work each side for a smooth, consistent, even colored piece of leather. You'll appreciate the quality that comes from over 130 years of experience.

LWG-Certified CHAHINLEATHER®

CHAHINLEATHER is committed to supporting responsible leather manufacturing across the globe and that is why they are a proud member of Leather Working Group/LWG.

Leather Working Group (LWG) is a global, member-led, non-profit organization that is dedicated to driving excellence in the leather industry, minimizing the environmental impact of leather production, and challenging industry perceptions.

Launched in 2005, the group offers the LWG Leather Manufacturer Audit Protocol as a means of assessing the environmental performance and related business practices of leather manufacturers. Developed by industry experts, audit protocols allow the assessment and certification of best practices in leather manufacturing facilities, ensuring brands and retailers can make responsible sourcing decisions.

Given the thoroughness of the assessment, leather manufacturers are required to meet stringent criteria and best practices to be recognized as an LWG Certified Leather Manufacturer. CHAHINLEATHER has been recognized with an LWG silver certification, and we are grateful to have distributed leathers from Chahin for over 25 years. All CHAHINLEATHER branded leathers are clearly identified throughout the catalog on all leather produced in their tannery and offered by Weaver Leather Supply.
